CHAPTER LEARNING OBJECTIVES

• To point out the enormous influence on world history of the religious and cultural traditions developed in Eurasia and North Africa between 500 B.C.E. and 500 C.E.

• To examine the reasons behind the development of these religious and cultural traditions

• To consider the common ground and significant differences between these religious and cultural traditions and examine possible reasons behind them

CHAPTER OUTLINE

I. Opening Vignette
   A. In 2009, China celebrated the 2,560th birthday of Confucius, despite Communism.
   1. Buddhism, Daoism and Christianity also growing rapidly in China
   2. part of enduring legacy of the second-wave civilizations

   B. In the period around 500 B.C.E., there was a great emergence of durable cultural traditions that have shaped the world ever since.

   1. Continuation of many local, “little” traditions
   2. China: Confucius and Laozi
   3. India: Upanishads defined what we call “Hinduism”; Siddhartha Gautama set Buddhism in motion 4. Middle East: development of monotheism a. Persia: Zoroastrianism (prophet Zarathustra)
      b. Israel: Judaism (prophets such as Isaiah) 5. Greece: rational humanism (Socrates, Plato, Aristotle, et al.)
   6. all sought an alternative to polytheism, placating of gods through ritual and sacrifice a. quest for source of order and meaning in the universe
      b. guide humans to personal moral or spiritual transformation (especially development of compassion)
      c. the questions they pose still trouble and inspire humankind
      d. they defined their distinctive cultures

   C. Why did all these traditions emerge at about the same time?
1. some historians point to major social changes a. iron-age technology led to higher productivity and deadlier war
   b. growing cities, increasing commerce
   c. emergence of new states and empires d. new contacts between civilizations 2. it’s a mystery why particular societies developed particular answers

II. China and the Search for Order A. China had a state-building tradition that went back to around 2000 B.C.E.
   1. idea of Mandate of Heaven was established by 1122 B.C.E. (foundation of the Zhou dynasty)
   2. breakdown into the chaos of the “age of warring states” (403–221 B.C.E.) B. The Legalist Answer
   1. Han Fei was a leading Legalist philosopher
   2. principle: strict rules, clearly defined and strictly enforced, are the answer to disorder
   3. pessimistic view of human nature; only the state can act in people’s long-term interest
   4. promotion of farmers and soldiers, who performed the only essential functions in society 5. Legalism inspired the Qin dynasty reunification of China
C. The Confucian Answer
   1. Confucius (551–479 B.C.E.) was an educated, ambitious aristocrat a. spent much of life looking for a political position to put his ideas into practice b. Confucius’s ideas had enormous impact on China and the rest of East Asia
      c. his teachings were collected by students as the Analects
      d. elaboration and commentary on his ideas by later scholars, creating Confucianism as a body of thought 2. principle: the moral example of superiors is the answer to disorder a. society consists of unequal relationships b. duty of the superior member to be sincere and benevolent c. will inspire deference and obedience from the inferior member 3. humans have capacity for improvement: education is the key
      a. advocated a broad liberal arts education
      b. application of liberal arts education to government problems
      c. need for ritual and ceremonies 4. after Legalism was discredited, Confucianism became the official ideology of the Chinese state 5. the family as a model for political life, with focus on filial piety
      a. defined role of women as being humble, serving husbands
      b. woman writer Ban Zhao (45–116 C.E.): Lessons for Women 6. Confucian virtues for ideal men contained in the paired concepts of wen and wu a. wen = refined qualities of rationality, scholarship, and literary and artistic abilities
      b. wu = physical and martial achievements c. wen considered superior to wu 7. emphasized the great importance of history a. ideal good society was a past golden age
      b. “superior men” had outstanding moral character and intellect; not just aristocrats
      c. created expectations for government: emperors to keep taxes low, give justice, and provide for material needs 8. Confucianism was nonreligious in character a. emphasis was practical, focused on this world
b. did not deny existence of gods and spirits, but the educated elite had little to do with them

D. The Daoist Answer
1. associated with the legendary Laozi (sixth century B.C.E.), author of the Daodejing (The Way and Its Power) 2. Daoism was in many ways the opposite of Confucianism
   a. education and striving for improvement was artificial and useless
   b. urged withdrawal into the world of nature 3. central concept: dao: the way of nature, the underlying principle that governs all natural phenomena 4. Daoism invited disengagement with public life a. Daoist image of virtuous natural world that had been lost to civilization b. yearned to connect with nature c. simple self-sufficient living d. abandonment of education and active self-improvement e. family still central
   f. complementarity and balance between sexes rather than hierarchy 5. elite Chinese often regarded Daoism as a complement to Confucianism 6. Daoism entered popular religion a. sought to tap the power of the dao for practical purposes (magic, the quest for immortality)
   b. provided the ideology for peasant rebellions (e.g., Yellow Turbans)

III. Cultural Traditions of Classical India
A. Indian cultural development was different 1. elite culture was enthusiastic about the divine and about spiritual matters 2. Hinduism (the Indian religious tradition) a. had no historical founder b. developed along with Indian civilization
   c. spread into Southeast Asia, but remained associated with India and the Indians above all

B. South Asian Religion: From Ritual Sacrifice to Philosophical Speculation
1. widely recognized sacred texts provided some common ground within the diversity of Indian culture and religion 2. the Vedas (poems, hymns, prayers, rituals) a. compiled by Brahmins (priests), transmitted orally
   b. were not written down (in Sanskrit) until around 600 B.C.E.
   c. provide a glimpse of Indian civilization in 1500–600 B.C.E. d. competing chiefdoms or kingdoms
   e. a clearly patriarchal society but less restrictive than later periods
   f. role of Brahmins in practicing elaborate ritual sacrifices gave them power and wealth 3. the Upanishads (mystical, philosophical works) developed in response to dissatisfaction with Brahmins a. composed between 800 and 400 B.C.E.
   b. probe inner meaning of Vedic sacrifices—introspection c. central idea: Brahman (the World Soul) as ultimate reality
   d. atman, the individual human soul, was part of Brahman e. ultimate goal moksha union of atman with Brahman
   f. achieving union involved many lifetimes
   g. samsara reincarnation/rebirth central to the process
   h. karma governed samsara 4. Hinduism legitimated and expressed India’s gender system a. women increasingly forbidden to learn Vedas and participate in public rituals b. Law of Manu defined women as beholden to men in every phase of life
c. sexual pleasure legitimate goal for men and women as detailed in the Kamasutra
d. many Hindu deities were female

5. multiple paths to fulfillment in Hindu religious thought a. Brahmin priests and especially wandering ascetics spread ideas

C. The Buddhist Challenge
1. developed side by side with philosophical Hinduism 2. Siddhartha Gautama (ca. 566–ca. 486 B.C.E.)
   a. spiritual journey led to “enlightenment” (insight) at age 35
   b. his followers saw him as the Buddha, the Enlightened One 3. central Buddhist teaching: life is suffering a. sorrow’s cause is craving for individual fulfillment, attachment to self b. “cure” it with modest and moral life, meditation
   c. goal is achievement of enlightenment or nirvana (extinguishing of individual identity) 4. large elements of Hinduism are present in Buddhist teaching a. life as an illusion
   b. karma and rebirth
   c. overcoming demands of the ego d. practice of meditation e. hope for release from the cycle of rebirth 5. much of Buddhism challenged Hinduism a. rejection of Brahmins’ religious authority
   b. lack of interest in abstract speculation
   c. need for individuals to take responsibility for their own spiritual development 6. also challenged inequalities of caste system 7. while at first opposed, Buddha ultimately allowed separate female orders of nuns a. rules clearly subordinated nuns to men

b. Buddha viewed women as an obstacle to male enlightenment
c. nuns found relative freedom and independence

8. appealed especially to lower castes and women in India a. teaching was in local language, not classical Sanskrit
   b. linked to local traditions with establishment of monasteries and stupas (shrines with relics of the Buddha)
c. state support from Ashoka (268–232 B.C.E.)

9. the split within Buddhism a. early Buddhism (Theravada, the Teaching of the Elders)
   b. by early in the Common Era, development of Mahayana (Great Vehicle)

D. Hinduism as a Religion of Duty and Devotion 1. Buddhism was gradually reincorporated into Hinduism in India
2. Mahayana Buddhism in particular spread elsewhere in Asia 3. first millennium C.E.: development of a more popular Hinduism a. expressed in epic poems, the Mahabharata and the Ramayana
   b. action in the world and performance of caste duties provide a path to liberation
   c. bhakti (worship) movement began in south India

IV. Toward Monotheism: The Search for God in the Middle East
A. The radical notion of a single supreme Deity developed in Zoroastrianism and Judaism and became the basis for both Christianity and Islam.

B. Zoroastrianism
1. Persian prophet Zarathustra traditionally dated to sixth or seventh century B.C.E.
2. some state support during Achaemenid dynasty (558–330 B.C.E.) 3. single god Ahura Mazda is source of truth, light, goodness a. cosmic struggle with Angra Mainyu (force of evil)
   b. Ahura Mazda will eventually win, aided by a final savior
   c. judgment day: restoration of world to purity and peace
   d. need for the individual to choose good or evil 4. Zoroastrianism did not spread widely beyond Persia a. Alexander and the Seleucid dynasty were disastrous for it
   b. flourished in Parthian (247 B.C.E.–224 C.E.) and Sassanid (224–651 C.E.) empires
   c. final decline caused by arrival of Islam; some Zoroastrians fled to India, became known as Parsis (“Persians”) 5. Jews in the Persian Empire were influenced by Zoroastrian ideas a. idea of God vs. Satan
   b. idea of a last judgment and bodily resurrection c. belief in the final defeat of evil, with help of a savior (Messiah)
   d. remaking of the world at the end of time C. Judaism
1. developed among the Hebrews, recorded in Hebrew scripture a. early tradition of migration to Palestine, led by Abraham b. early tradition of enslavement in Egypt and escape
   c. establishment of state of Israel ca. 1000 B.C.E.
2. Judean exiles in Babylon retained their cultural identity, returned to homeland 3. distinctive conception of God a. Yahweh demanded exclusive loyalty
   b. relationship with Yahweh as a covenant (contract)
   c. lofty, transcendent deity—but communication was possible
   d. from god of war to god of social justice and compassion 4. foundation for both Christianity and Islam 5. material world not an illusion; God gave humans mastery over the natural world

V. The Cultural Tradition of Classical Greece: The Search for a Rational Order A. Classical Greece did not create an enduring religious tradition.
1. system of polytheism, fertility cults, and so on, remained 2. Greek intellectuals abandoned mythological framework
   a. world is a physical reality governed by natural laws
   b. humans can understand those laws
   c. human reason can work out a system for ethical life 3. perhaps was caused by diversity and incoherence of mythology a. intellectual stimulation of great civilizations
   b. possible influence of growing role of law in Athenian political life B. The Greek Way of Knowing
1. flourished 600–300 B.C.E. (same time as city-states flourished)
2. key element: the way questions were asked (argument, logic, questioning of received wisdom)
3. best example: Socrates (469–399 B.C.E.) of Athens
   a. constant questioning of assumptions b. conflict with city authorities over Athenian democracy
   c. accused of corrupting the youth, sentenced to death 4. earliest classical Greek thinkers a. applied rational questioning to nature
   b. application to medicine 5. application of Greek rationalism to understand human behavior a. Herodotus: why did Greeks and Persians fight each other?
b. Plato (429–348 B.C.E.) outlined design for a good society (Republic) led by a “philosopher-king”
c. Aristotle (384–322 B.C.E.) most complete expression of the Greek way of knowing

C. The Greek Legacy
1. many people continued traditional religious beliefs and practices 2. Greek rationalism spread widely a. helped by Alexander’s Empire and that of the Romans b. Christian theology was expressed in Greek philosophical terms
   c. classical Greek texts preserved in Byzantine Empire
   d. Western Europe: neglect of classical scholarship after fall of Roman Empire
   e. part of Islamic culture

VI. The Birth of Christianity . . . with Buddhist Comparisons
A. The Lives of the Founders 1. Gautama was royal, Jesus was from a lower-class family 2. both became spiritual seekers
   a. both were mystics: claimed personal experience of another level of reality
   b. based life’s work on their religious experience 3. both were “wisdom teachers” a. challenged conventional values b. urged renunciation of wealth c. stressed love or compassion as the basis of morality
   d. called for personal transformation of their followers 4. important differences a. Jesus had Jewish tradition of single personal deity b. Jesus’ teaching was more social and political than Gautama’s c. Jesus was active for about three years; Gautama for over forty
   d. Jesus was executed as a criminal; Gautama died of old age

B. The Spread of New Religions
1. probably neither intended to create a new religion, but both did
2. followers transformed both into gods 3. how Christianity became a world religion a. process began with Paul (10–65 C.E.) b. women had more opportunities (but early still reflected patriarchy of time)
   c. early converts were typically urban lower class and women
   d. attraction of miracle stories e. attraction of Christian care for each other 4. spread of Christianity a. Paul spread to modern Turkey and Syria b. Syria and Persia heartlands of the Church in the East with own organization and liturgy
   c. Armenia first place where rulers adopted Christianity as a state region
   d. Syrian and Persian missionaries brought Christianity to southern India and Central Asia
   e. by 570 C.E. some Arabs had become Christians f. Coptic church emerged in Egypt
   g. North Africa furnished intellectuals and martyrs
   h. during fourth century Christianity became state religion in Axum (modern Eritrea and Ethiopia)
   i. Axum Christianity linked to Coptic Church, but used local Ge’ez language 5. Roman persecution of Christians as “atheists” for their antagonism to all divine powers except their one god a. ended with conversion of Emperor Constantine in early fourth century C.E b. later Roman emperors tried to use Christianity as social glue c. Theodosius ordered closure of all polytheistic temples
   d. start process by which Roman Empire and later all of Europe became overwhelmingly Christian 6. Buddhism: Ashoka’s support helped, but Buddhism was never promoted as India’s sole religion a. Buddhism ultimately absorbed into Hinduism in India 7. In Roman empire no renewal of Roman polytheism a. Christianity endured in Europe
   b. but took up some practices from Roman world 8. both Buddhism and Christianity created networks of cultural connections

C. Institutions, Controversies, and Divisions
1. series of church councils in 325 C.E., 451 C.E., and 553 C.E. defined which texts were part of the New Testament and which were abandoned 2. Christianity developed a male hierarchical organization a. women were excluded from priesthood b. concern for uniform doctrine and practice
   c. emergence of bishop of Rome (pope) as dominant leader in Western Europe 3. Buddhism clashed over interpretation of the Buddha’s teachings a. series of councils did not prevent divisions
   b. less sense of “right” and “wrong” than with Christian conflicts 4. Buddhism did not develop an overall church hierarchy